NEW QUESTION: 2 What mechanism does a system use to compare the security labels of a subject and an object?
A. Security Module
B. Validation Module
C. Reference Monitor
D. Clearance Check
Answer: C
Explanation: Because the Reference Monitor is responsible for access control to the objects by the subjects it compares the security labels of a subject and an object. According to the OIG: The reference monitor is an access control concept referring to an abstract machine that mediates all accesses to objects by subjects based on information in an access control database. The reference monitor must mediate all access, be protected from modification, be verifiable as correct, and must always be invoked. The reference monitor, in accordance with the security policy, controls the checks that are made in the access control database. The following are incorrect: Validation Module. A Validation Module is typically found in application source code and is used to validate data being inputted. Clearance Check. Is a distractor, there is no such thing other than what someone would do when checking if someone is authorized to access a secure facility. Security Module. Is typically a general purpose module that performs a variety of security related functions. NEW QUESTION: 3 What is the main purpose of Corporate Security Policy?
A. To provide a common framework for all development activities
B. To provide detailed steps for performing specific actions
C. To communicate management's intentions in regards to information security
D. To transfer the responsibility for the information security to all users of the organization
Answer: C
Explanation: A Corporate Security Policy is a high level document that indicates what are management's intentions in regard to Information Security within the organization. It is high level in purpose, it does not give you details about specific products that would be used, specific steps, etc.. The organization's requirements for access control should be defined and documented in its security policies. Access rules and rights for each user or group of users should be clearly stated in an access policy statement. The access control policy should minimally consider: Statements of general security principles and their applicability to the organization Security requirements of individual enterprise applications, systems, and services Consistency between the access control and information classification policies of different systems and networks Contractual obligations or regulatory compliance regarding protection of assets Standards defining user access profiles for organizational roles Details regarding the management of the access control system As a Certified Information System Security

Professional (CISSP) you would be involved directly in the drafting and coordination of security policies, standards and supporting guidelines, procedures, and baselines. Guidance provided by the CISSP for technical security issues, and emerging threats are considered for the adoption of new policies. Activities such as interpretation of government regulations and industry trends and analysis of vendor solutions to include in the security architecture that advances the security of the organization are performed by the CISSP as well. The following are incorrect answers: To transfer the responsibility for the information security to all users of the organization is bogus. You CANNOT transfer responsibility, you can only transfer authority. Responsibility will also sit with upper management. The keywords ALL and USERS is also an indication that it is the wrong choice. To provide detailed steps for performing specific actions is also a bogus detractor. A step by step document is referred to as a procedure. It details how to accomplish a specific task. To provide a common framework for all development activities is also an invalid choice. Security Policies are not restricted only to development activities. NEW QUESTION: 4 The nurse instructs a pregnant client (G2P1) to rest in a side-lying position and avoid lying flat on her back. The nurse explains that this is to avoid "vena caval syndrome," a condition which:
A. Results when blood flow from the extremities is blocked or slowed
B. Is seen mainly in first pregnancies
C. May require medication if positioning does not help
D. Occurs when blood pressure increases sharply with changes in position
Answer: A
Explanation: (A) Blood pressure changes are predominantly due to pressure of the gravid uterus. (B) Pressure of the gravid uterus on the inferior vena cava decreases blood return from lower extremities. (C) Inferior vena cava syndrome is experienced in the latter months of pregnancy regardless of parity. (D) There are no medications useful in the treatment of inferior vena cava syndrome; alleviating pressure by position changes is effective.
