NEW QUESTION: 1In a competitive market, an increase in the minimum wage will likely have the following effects:A. Firms paying at the current minimum wage rate would generally be unaffected if the marginal revenue produced by the lowest paid workers does not exceed the new higher cost of the worker. Many firms would thus be forced to work more efficiently.B. Firms currently paying above the new minimum wage would generally raise their pay rates (although the new minimum wage creates a new floor for employee wage bargaining purposes).C. Total employment will likely decrease in affected industries and generate unemployment. Employers will demand a smaller number of workers while a larger number of workers will be attracted by the higher wage.D. If a marginally more expensive form of capital is available to substitute for labor (e.g., due to technological advances), firms will reduce their use of labor.
Answer: C Explanation: Choice "c" is correct. With an increase in the minimum wage, total employment will likely decrease in affected industries and generate unemployment. Employers will demand a smaller number of workers while a larger number of workers will be attracted by the higher wage. Choice "a" is incorrect. Firms currently paying above the new minimum wage would generally be unaffected, not raise their pay rates. Choice "b" is incorrect. Firms paying at the current minimum wage rate would attempt to reduce labor, not generally be unaffected. Choice "d" is incorrect. If a marginally cheaper, not more expensive. Volume C

NEW QUESTION: 3 The property of a system or a system resource being accessible and usable upon demand by an authorized system entity, according to performance specifications for the system is referred to as? A. Reliability B. Confidentiality C. Integrity D. Availability Answer: D

Explanation: An company security program must: 1) assure that systems and applications operate effectively and provide appropriate confidentiality, integrity, and availability; 2) protect information commensurate with the level of risk and magnitude of harm resulting from loss, misuse, unauthorized access, or modification. The property of a system or a system resource being accessible and usable upon demand by an authorized system entity, according to performance specifications for the system; i.e., a system is available if it provides services according to the system design whenever users request them. The following are incorrect answers: Confidentiality - The information requires protection from unauthorized disclosure and only the INTENDED recipient should have access to the meaning of the data either in storage or in transit. Integrity - The information must be protected from unauthorized, unanticipated, or unintentional modification. This includes, but is not limited to: Authenticity - A third party must be able to verify that the content of a message has not been changed in transit. Non-repudiation - The origin or the receipt of a specific message must be verifiable by a third party. Accountability - A security goal that generates the requirement for actions of an entity to be traced uniquely to that entity.
