NEW QUESTION: 1Your network contains an Active Directory domain named contoso.com. The domain contains multiple sites.You plan to deploy DirectAccess.The network security policy states that when client computers connect to the corporate network from the Internet, all of the traffic destined for the Internet must be routed through the corporate network.You need to recommend a solution for the planned DirectAccess deployment that meets the security policy requirement.Solution: You enable force tunneling.Does this meet the goal?A. No*B. Yes*Answer: B*Explanation:DirectAccess allows connectivity to organizational network resources without the need for traditional virtual private network (VPN) connections.DirectAccess allows remote users to securely access internal network file shares, Web sites, and applications without connecting to a virtual private network (VPN). An internal network is also known as a private network or intranet.DirectAccess establishes bi-directional connectivity with an internal network every time a DirectAccess-enabled computer connects to the Internet, even before the user logs on. Users never have to think about connecting to the internal network and IT administrators can manage remote computers outside the office, even when the computers are not connected to the VPN.Reference:DirectAccess Overview

NEW QUESTION: 2Your network contains an Active Directory domain named contoso.com. The domain contains two servers named Server1 and Server2 that run Windows Server 2012 R2. Server2 establishes an IPsec connection to Server1.You need to view which authentication method was used to establish the initial IPsec connection.What should you do?A. From Event Viewer, search the Security Log for events that have an ID of 4672.*B. From Event Viewer, search the Application Log for events that have an ID of 1704.*C. From Windows Firewall with Advanced Security, view the main mode security association.*D. From Windows Firewall with Advanced Security, view the quick mode security association.*Answer: C*Explanation:Main mode negotiation establishes a secure channel between two computers by determining a set of cryptographic protection suites, exchanging keying material to establish a shared secret key, and authenticating computer and user identities. A security association (SA) is the information maintained about that secure channel on the local computer so that it can use the information for future network traffic to the remote computer. You can monitor main mode SAs for information like which peers are currently connected to this computer and which protection suite was used to form the SA.References:
