NEW QUESTION: 2Note: This question is part of a series of questions that use the same set of answer choices.An answer choice may be correct for more than one question in the series.Your network contains a System Center 2012 Configuration Manager environment.Your company deploys a third-party Application to 10,000 client computers.You need to ensure that you can run a report that lists all of the client computers that ran the Applicationlast month.What should you do?A. Modify the Enable software inventory on clients setting.B. Add a file name to the Hardware Inventory configuration.C. Modify the Enable hardware inventory on clients setting.D. Add a file name to the Software Inventory configuration.E. Select Collect NOIDMIF files in Hardware Inventory.F. Add a WMI class to the Sms_def.mof file.G. Add a file name to Software Metering.H. Enable a default WMI class in the Hardware Inventory Classes list.I. Add a WMI class to the Hardware Inventory Classes list.Answer: GExplanation:Explanation/Reference: Software metering in Configuration Manager 2012 allows you to monitor and collect software usage data on Configuration Manager 2012 clients.The collection of this usage data is based on software metering rules that can be configured by the administrator in the Configuration Manager console, or by the automatic generation of rules based on usage data collected by Configuration Manager 2012 inventory. These rules are evaluated by the software metering client agent on Configuration Manager 2012 client computers, which collects metering data and reports this back to the site database. The software metering client agent continues to collect usage data when there is no connection to the Configuration Manager 2012 site and will report this back when the connection is re-established. Software metering data held on the site database is summarized on a specified schedule and propagated up through the site hierarchy to any parent site. The central Configuration Manager 2012 site database will therefore contain usage data from all client computers within the site hierarchy.
