NEW QUESTION: 1Answer: Explanation:

NEW QUESTION: 2You have a SQL Server Integration Services (SSIS) package that uses an Execute SQL task to load data to a data warehouse. You need to log all of the statements that execute for the data warehouse. The solution must store the log on a server that has SQL Server installed. Which SSIS log provider and event type should you use? To answer, select the appropriate options in the answer area.Answer: Explanation:ExplanationSSIS log provider: SQL ServerEvent type: ExecutesSQLExecutingQueryThe following describes the custom log entry for the Execute SQL task:ExecutesSQLExecutingQuery provides information about the execution phases of the SQL statement. Log entries are written when the task acquires connection to the database, when the task starts to prepare the SQL statement, and after the execution of the SQL statement is completed. The log entry for the prepare phase includes the SQL statement that the task uses. Note: You can log the calls that the Execute SQL task makes to external data providers. You can use this logging capability to troubleshoot the SQL commands that the Execute SQL task runs. To log the calls that the Execute SQL task makes to external data providers, enable package logging and select the Diagnostic event at the package level.
