NEW QUESTION: 1After completing the installation of new overlay WIPS, what baseline function MUST be performed?A. Configure profiles for operation among different regularity domains.B. Configure specifications for upstream and down stream throughout thresholds.C. Approved 802.1X/EAP methods need to be selected and confirmed.D. Classify the authorized, neighbor, and rogue WLAN devices.Answer: D*Explanation:Most WIDS/WIPS vendors categorize access points and client stations in four or more classifications. Wi-Fi vendors may have different names for the various classifications, but most solutions classify 802.11 radios as follows:Authorized Device, Unauthorized Device, Neighbor Device, Rogue DeviceMany WIDS/WIPS solutions also have the ability to conduct auto-classification. As shown in Figure 10.12, WLAN devices can be automatically added to any classification based on a variety of variables, including authentication method, encryption method, SSID, IP addresses, and so on. Auto-classification capabilities should be used carefully to ensure that only proper devices are classified as authorized.
