NEW QUESTION: 3DRAG DROPThe voice gateway selects an inbound VoIP dial peer by matching the information elements in the setup message with the dial peer attributes. From the list on the left, drag the elements to the right and drop them in the order in which a voice gateway matches inbound calls. Not all options are used.Answer: Explanation:Explanation: Inbound Dial Peers Matching ProcessWhen the Cisco IOS router or gateway receives a call setup request, a dial peer match is made forthe incoming call in order to facilitate routing the call to different session applications. This is not adigit-by-digit match; rather the full digit string received in the setup request is used to matchagainst configured dial peers. The router or gateway matches the information elements in thesetup message with the dial peer attributes to select an inbound dial peer. The router or gatewaymatches these items in this order:Called number (DNIS) with the incoming called-number command:First, the router or gateway attempts to match the called number of the call setup request with theconfigured incoming called-number of each dial peer. Because call setups always include DNISinformation, it is recommended to use the incoming called-number command for inbound dial peermatching. This attribute has matching priority over the answer-address and destination-pattern commands.Calling Number (ANI) with the answer-address command:If no match is found in step 1, the router or gateway attempts to match the calling number of thecall setup request with the answer-address of each dial peer. This attribute can be useful insituations where you want to match calls based on the calling number (originating).Calling Number (ANI) with the destination-pattern command:If no match is found in step 2, the router or gateway attempts to match the calling number of thecall setup request to the destination-pattern of each dial peer. For more information about this, seethe first bullet in the Dial Peer Additional Information section of this document.Voice-port (associated with the incoming call setup request) with configured dial peer port(applicable for inbound POTS call legs):If no match is found in the step 3, the router or gateway attempts to match the configured dial peerport to the voice-port associated with the incoming call. If multiple dial peers have the same port configured, the dial peer first added in the configuration is matched. If no match is found in the first four steps, then the default dial peer 0 command is used.
