NEW QUESTION: 2What is required to achieve gigabit network throughput on EC2? You already selected cluster-compute, 10GB instances with enhanced networking, and your workload is already network-bound, but you are not seeing 10 gigabit speeds.A. Ensure the instances are in different VPCs so you don't saturate the Internet Gateway on any one VPC.B. Enable bplex networking on your servers, so packets are non-blocking in both directions and there's no switching overhead.C. Use a placement group for your instances so the instances are physically near each other in the same Availability Zone.D. Select PIOPS for your drives and mount several, so you can provision sufficient disk throughput.Answer: CExplanation:ExplanationA placement group is a logical grouping of instances within a single Availability Zone. Placement groups are recommended for applications that benefit from low network latency, high network throughput, or both. To provide the lowest latency, and the highest packet-per-second network performance for your placement group, choose an instance type that supports enhanced networking.For more information on Placement Groups, please visit the below URL:*
