NEW QUESTION: 2 Your company uses on-premises Windows Server File Classification Infrastructure (FCI). Some documents on the on-premises file servers are classified as Confidential. You migrate the files from the on-premises file servers to Microsoft SharePoint Online. You need to ensure that you can implement data loss prevention (DLP) policies for the uploaded files based on the Confidential classification. What should you do first?A. From the Security & Compliance Center PowerShell, run the New-DlpComplianceRule cmdlet.B. From the Security & Compliance Center PowerShell, run the New-DataClassification cmdlet.C. From the SharePoint admin center, create a managed property.D. From the SharePoint admin center, configure hybrid search.Answer: C Explanation: Your organization might use Windows Server FCI to identify documents with personally identifiable information (PII) such as social security numbers, and then classify the document by setting the Personally Identifiable Information property to High, Moderate, Low, Public, or Not PII based on the type and number of occurrences of PII found in the document. In Office 365, you can create a DLP policy that identifies documents that have that property set to specific values, such as High and Medium, and then takes an action such as blocking access to those files. Before you can use a Windows Server FCI property or other property in a DLP policy, you need to create a managed property in the SharePoint admin center. Reference:

As a result, these questions will not appear in the review screen. You are developing a RESTful API that uses ASP.NET Core. You plan to host the API in Azure App Services. You provision a development environment in the application service. Developers must be able to deploy the API to the development environment. You must not share the Azure account credentials with developers. You need to ensure that developers can deploy the API to the development environment. Solution: Download the Publish profile for the application service and share it with the developers. Use Microsoft Visual Studio Publishing. Does the solution meet the goal?A. NoB. YesAnswer: B Explanation: Explanation To configure deployment for a web project in Visual Studio, you create one or more publish profiles using the Publish Web wizard. A publish profile specifies the server you are deploying to, the credentials needed to log on to the server, the databases to deploy, and other deployment options. When you are ready to publish, you choose the profile you want to use and click the Publish button in the wizard or in the Web One Click Publish toolbar. References:
