NEW QUESTION: 1Pursuant to opening a new branch office in an emerging market in South Asia, the distributor ("Distributor") engaged by Avaya comes in contact with a leading businessman in the country who claims to have sufficient contacts within the nongovernment space and offers to promote Avaya and our offerings in the country. For the above purpose, the businessman demands a cash payment of $1000 which the Distributor pays on behalf of Avaya without seeking Avaya's express approval. Is the Distributor's conduct appropriate?A. No, the Distributor has violated our Avaya's policies since he did not receive Avaya's approval before effecting the payment.B. Yes, since these are typically facilitation "grease" payments aimed to speed up things in the country and are acceptable as exceptions under certain anti-bribery/anti-corruption laws in various countries.C. No, because the Distributor violated Avaya's policies on anti-bribery/anti-corruption because he did not conduct any due diligence on the businessman and without Avaya's knowledge engaged in conduct designed to improperly influence a commercial customer.Answer: C

NEW QUESTION: 2What is the angle between the following two three dimensional vectors: $a=(1,2,3)$, $b=(-4,2,0)$?A. 180 degreesB. 45 degreesC. 57 degreesD. 90 degreesAnswer: D

NEW QUESTION: 3Identify three differences between the shutdown and init commands.A. The shutdown command can only bring the system to the single-user milestone. The command must be used to shut the system down to run level 0.B. The shutdown sends a shutdown message to any systems that are mounting resource-tern that is being shut down.C. Only shutdown broadcasts a final shutdown warning to all fogged in users.D. init does not terminate all services normally. The shutdown command performs a t shutdown of all services.E. init shuts a system down faster than the shutdown command.F. The shutdown command will shut the system down and turn off power; init will only shut system down.Answer: B,C,E

Explanation:Note shutdown:Shutdown is executed by the super user to change the state of the machine. In most cases, it is used to change from the multi-user state (state 2) to another state. By default, shutdown brings the system to a state where only the console has access to the operating system. This state is called single-user. Before starting to shut down daemons and killing processes, shutdown sends a warning message and, by default, a final message asking for confirmation. message is a string that is sent out following the standard warning message "The system will be shut down in ..." If the string contains more than one word, it should be contained within single (') or double(") quotation marks. Note init: If a 0 through 6 is entered, init enters the corresponding run level. Run levels 0, 5, and 6 are reserved states for shutting the system down. Run levels 2, 3, and 4 are available as multi-user operating states. OPTIONS0 Go into firmware. 5 Shut the machine down so that it is safe to remove the power. Have the machine remove power, if possible. 6 Stop the operating system and reboot to the state defined by the init default entry in /etc/inittab. Reference: man init, man shutdown
