NEW QUESTION: 4You plan to design an SQL Server Integration Services (SSIS) package to move data from a source system to an SQL Server database named Warehouse.You need to implement a data loading strategy for the package. The solution must ensure that if a failure occurs, the connection automatically resumes from the point of failure.How should you configure each package property? To answer, select the appropriate options in the answer area.Answer: Explanation:ExplanationBox 1 CheckPointUsage: AlwaysCheckpointUsage specifies whether checkpoints are used.Always specifies that the checkpoint file is always used and that the package restarts from the point of the previous execution failure. If the checkpoint file is not found, the package fails.Box 2: FailPackageOnFailure: FalseYou must set the FailPackageOnFailure property to true for all the containers in the package that you want to identify as restart points.Box 3: SaveCheckPoints: YesSaveCheckpoints indicates whether the package saves checkpoints. This property must be set to True to restart a package from a point of failure.Box 4: TransactionOption: SupportedTransactionOption in SSIS is used to start transactions, add executables to transactions or keep them out of transactions. It has 3 values; namely-> Required :- The container which has the transactionoption set to this, joins any available transaction or else starts a new transaction .-> Supported -> Joins any available transaction (started by its parent container) but if not available, does not start one.-> Not

Supported -> Does not support transactions. The transactions follow all theReferences:
