NEW QUESTION: 2 The exhibit shows part of the configuration for a router. You receive a complaint that the router is not correctly reclassifying all traffic to the best-effort forwarding class when the amount of IPv4 traffic exceeds 10 Mbps. You have isolated the problem to traffic with the IP precedence bits set to the binary value 101. Which configuration is causing this behavior?A. the filter firewall filter's term 1B. the ip_classifier_1 classifierC. the policer1 policerD. the filter firewall filter's term 2Answer: A

NEW QUESTION: 3 Refer to the exhibit. You are the network administrator of the Route.com company. You have been tasked to implement a hub and spoke EIGRP topology over Frame Relay to provide connectivity between the networks at headquarters and all 300 spokes. Before you begin the actual implementation, which three pieces of information are more important to know than the others? (Choose three.)A. the Committed Information Rate of all the Frame Relay PVCsB. the router model number of all the spoke routersC. the number of HQ networks connected behind the headquarter routersD. the Cisco IOS version running on all the routersE. the routing policy, such as whether or not the spokes can be used as backup transient point between the two headquarter routersAnswer: A,D,E
Explanation: Explanation/Reference:
Explanation: You have to know the committed information rate because it is a bandwidth associated with logical connection in a PVC. You also need to know the IOS version on all routers so that there is no conflict in versions. As per the topology, you need to know the routing policy because it will be used as a backup transient point between headquarter routers
