NEW QUESTION: 1The network contains an Active Directory domain named contoso.com. The domain contains the servers configured as shown in the following table. All servers run Windows Server 2016. All client computers run Windows 10 and are domain members. All laptops are protected by using BitLocker Drive Encryption (BitLocker). You have an organizational unit (OU) named OU1 that contains the computer accounts of application servers. An OU named OU2 contains the computer accounts of the computers in the marketing department. A Group Policy object (GPO) named GP1 is linked to OU1. A GPO named GP2 is linked to OU2. All computers receive updates from Server1. You create an update rule named Update1. You enable deep script block logging for Windows PowerShell. In which event log will PowerShell code that is generated dynamically appear?
A. Windows Logs/Security
B. Applications and Services Logs/Windows PowerShell
C. Windows Logs/Application
D. Applications and Services Logs/Microsoft/Windows/PowerShell/Operational
Answer: D
Explanation: https://docs.microsoft.com/en-us/powershell/wmf/5.0/audit_script While Windows PowerShell already has the LogPipelineExecutionDetails Group Policy setting to log the invocation of cmdlets, PowerShell's scripting language has plenty of features that you might want to log and/or audit. The new Detailed Script Tracing feature lets you enable detailed tracking and analysis of Windows PowerShell scripting use on a system. After you enable detailed script tracing, Windows PowerShell logs all script blocks to the ETW (event tracing for windows) event log - Microsoft-WindowsPowerShell/Operational. If a script block creates another script block (for example, a script that calls the Invoke-Expression cmdlet on a string), that resulting script block is logged as well. Logging of these events can be enabled through the Turn on PowerShell Script Block Logging Group Policy setting (in Administrative Templates -> WindowsComponents -> Windows PowerShell).
