NEW QUESTION: 1Your network contains a single Active Directory domain named contoso.com. The domain contains a domain controller named DC1 that hosts the primary DNS zone for contoso.com. All servers dynamically register their host names. You install the new Web servers that host identical copies of your company's intranet website. The servers are configured as shown in the following table. You need to use DNS records to load balance name resolution queries for intranet.contoso.com between the two Web servers. What is the minimum number of DNS records that you should create manually?
A. 0
B. 1
C. 2
D. 3
Answer: B
Explanation: Round robin is a local balancing mechanism used by DNS servers to share and distribute network resource loads. You can use it to rotate all resource record (RR) types contained in a query answer if multiple RRs are found. By default, DNS uses round robin to rotate the order of RR data returned in query answers where multiple RRs of the same type exist for a queried DNS domain name. This feature provides a simple method for load balancing client use of Web servers and other frequently queried multihomed computers. If round robin is disabled for a DNS server, the order of the response for these queries is based on a static ordering of RRs in the answer list as they are stored in the zone (either its zone file or Active Directory). Question is know to have multiple answers depending on the number of server at the question like: at this scenario it would be 3 the correct answer. A records for each IP is needed.

NEW QUESTION: 2What is the purpose of POSTSCHEDULECMD option in the IBM Spectrum Protect backup- archive client option file?
A. specifies any delay in seconds of the scheduled action
B. specifies a command that the client program processes after it runs any schedule
C. specifies the command to run for stopping the scheduler service if it receives an error
D. specifies the number of times the schedule needs to be run after a first successful completion
Answer: B
Explanation: The postschedulecmd/postnschedulecmd options specify a command that the client program processes after it runs a schedule. If you want the client program to wait for the command to complete before it continues with other processing, use the postschedulecmd option. If you do not want to wait for the command to complete before the client continues with other processing, specify the postnschedulecmd.
