A. The Administrator has requested too many instances at once and must request fewer instances in batches
B. The Administrator must specify the maximum number of instances to be - created provisioning EC stances
C. AWS does not currently nave enough available capacity and a different instance type must be used
D. The concurrent running instance limit has been reached and an EC2 limit increase request must be filed with AWS Support
Answer: D
Explanation: Explanation EC2 Service Limits: AWS sets limits for these resources on a per-region basis. If you are getting an InstanceLimitExceeded error when you try to launch an instance, you have reached your concurrent running instance limit. For new AWS accounts, the default limit is 20. If you need additional running instances, complete the form at Request to Increase Amazon EC2 Instance Limit. By default, all AWS accounts have a limit of 20 running instances at any time per region. If you attempt to start another one, even if it already existed in the stopped state, you will receive this error message. To resolve this issue, you can do any of the following: Stop one of your other running instances Contact AWS support and request your running EC2 instances quota limit be raised.
