Using the high-low method of analysis, these variable costs can be computed by determining the apparent variable costs for the two given levels of activity. For 160 orders, the relevant costs with a variable element include purchasing clerks, US $1,750; supplies, US $400, and receiving clerks, US $2,200. The total is US $4,350. For 100 orders, these costs are US $1,250, US $260, and US $1,700, respectively, for a total of US $3,210. As the number of orders increased by 60, the costs increased by US $1,140. Consequently, the variable or incremental costs per order must have been US $19 ($1,140 ÷ 60 orders). Candman Company is a wholesale distributor of candy.
