The sparklines can be used to show trends in a small amount of space. It visually summarizes trends alongside data. Sparklines can be used in places where users need to show a snapshot of their data in an easy-to-understand visual format. Sparklines can be added through the Insert tab.Answer option B is incorrect. Charts will not provide the representation row-wise. Moreover, it will involve lots of administrative burden. Answer option A is incorrect. Illustrations include pictures, smart objects, snapshots, etc. It cannot be used to display trends. Answer option D is incorrect. A conditional format in Microsoft Excel is used to automatically format (e.g., change the font size or cell shading) a cell if a particular condition is true. It does not provide the pictorial representation of trend. References: Changes in Excel 2010
