scaling of EC2 Instances in the Autoscaling group is normally done with the metric of the CPU utilization of the current instances in the Autoscaling group For more information on scaling in your Autoscaling Group, please refer to the below link:* http://docs.aws.a

mazon.com/autoscaling/latest/userguide/as-scaling-simple-step.htmlAmazon RDS Multi-AZ deployments provide enhanced availability and durability for Database (DB) Instances, making them a natural fit for production database workloads. When you provision a Multi-AZ DB

Instance, Amazon RDS automatically creates a primary DB Instance and synchronously replicates the data to a standby instance in a different Availability Zone (AZ). Each AZ runs on its own physically distinct, independent infrastructure, and is engineered to be highly reliable. In case of an infrastructure failure, Amazon RDS performs an automatic failover to the standby for to a read replica in the case of Amazon Aurora), so that you can resume database operations as soon as the failover is complete. For more information on RDS Multi-AZ please refer to the below link:

* <https://aws.amazon.com/rds/details/multi-az/>
Option A is invalid because if you already have in-built metrics from Cloudwatch, why would you want to spend more in using a third-party monitoring solution. Option B is invalid because health checks are already a feature of AWS CLB. Option C is invalid because the database CPU usage should not be used to scale the web tier. Option D is invalid because increasing the instance size does not always guarantee that the solution will not become unhealthy. Option E is invalid because increasing Read-Replica's will not suffice for write operations if the primary DB fails.

Upon further investigation, the technician determines that websites can be reached by entering their IP addresses. Which of the following ports may have been closed to cause this issue?
A. HTTP
B. NetBIOS
C. DNS
D. DHCP
Answer: C
Explanation: DNS links IP addresses and human-friendly fully qualified domain names (FQDNs), which are made up of the Top-level domain (TLD), the registered domain name, and the Subdomain or hostname. Therefore, if the DNS ports are blocked websites will not be reachable.
