NEW QUESTION: 1 Given the code fragment:

```
public class DisplaValues { public void printNums (int [] nums){ for (int number: nums) { System.err.println(number);}}

Assume the method printNums is passed a valid array containing data. Why is this method not producing output on the console?A. The variable number is not initialized.B. There is a runtime exception.C. There is a compilation error.D. Standard error is mapped to another destination.Answer: D*Explanation: The code compiles fine. The code runs fine. The err stream can be redirected. Note: System.out.println -> Sends the output to a standard output stream. Generally monitor. System.err.println -> Sends the output to a standard error stream. Generally monitor.err is the "standard" error output stream. This stream is already open and ready to accept output data. Typically this stream corresponds to display output or another output destination specified by the host environment or user. By convention, this output stream is used to display error messages or other information that should come to the immediate attention of a user even if the principal output stream, the value of the variable out, has been redirected to a file or other destination that is typically not continuously monitored. NEW QUESTION: 3 Your company is planning to track vehicle information in Dynamics AX. Two tables will be required to store the information. Each vehicle will be uniquely identified by an ID having alpha numeric value. You need to create two custom tables that store information related to the vehicles. Each table needs to have a field that identifies the vehicle in the system. How should you add these fields?A. Create an Extended Data Type (EDT) of type real, and then add this EDT to both tables.B. Create a base enumeration for the ID on each table.C. Create an Extended Data Type (EDT) of type string, and then add this EDT to both tables.D. Add an integer field on each table for the vehicle IDAnswer: B

NEW QUESTION: 4 A company is designing a data processing platform to process a Large number of files in an Amazon S3 bucket and store the results in Amazon DynamoDB. These files will be processed once and must be retained for 1 year. The company wants to ensure that the original files and resulting data are highly available in multiple AWS Regions. Which solution will meet these requirements?

A. Create an S3 CreateObject event notification to copy the file to Amazon Elastic Block Store (Amazon EBS). Use AWS DataSync to sync the files between EBS volumes in multiple Regions. Use an Amazon EC2 Auto Scaling group in multiple Regions to attach the EBS volumes. Process the files and store the results in a DynamoDB global table in multiple Regions. Configure the S3 bucket with an S3 Lifecycle policy to move the files to S3 Glacier after 1 year.

B. Copy the files to an S3 bucket in another Region by using cross-Region replication. Create an S3 CreateObject event notification on the original bucket to execute an AWS Lambda function to process each file and store the results in a DynamoDB global table in multiple Regions. Configure both S3 buckets to use the S3 Standard-infrequent Access (S3 Standard-IA) storage class and an S3 Lifecycle policy to delete the files after 1 year.

C. Create an S3 CreateObject event notification to copy the file to Amazon Elastic File System (Amazon EFS). Use AWS DataSync to sync the files between EFS volumes in multiple Regions. Use an AWS Lambda function to process the EFS files and store the results in a DynamoDB global table in multiple Regions. Configure the S3 buckets with an S3 Lifecycle policy to move the files to S3 Glacier after 1 year.

D. Copy the files to an S3 bucket in another Region by using cross-Region replication. Create an S3 CreateObject event notification on the original bucket to push S3 file paths into Amazon EventBridge (Amazon CloudWatch Events). Use an AWS Lambda function to poll EventBridge (CloudWatch Events) to process each file and save the results in a DynamoDB table in each Region. Configure both S3 buckets to use the S3 Standard-infrequent Access (S3 Standard-IA) storage class and an S3 lifecycle policy to delete the files after 1 year.
