Explanation:By default, the reference bandwidth used in Cisco routers is 100Mbps, no

FastEthernet and above will have a cost of 1, no a gigabit interface and 10GE interface will be equal with a fastethernet. This is not ideal. If we change the reference bandwidth to 100000 then the faster link will be used. Changing the reference bandwidth needs to be done on all routers in the OSPF network.Increasing the cost on the R1-R3 link will also cause the traffic to take the more direct route.
