NEW QUESTION: 3Amit is running a web application with a capacity of 5000 users. Every few days, traffic reaches 5000 users and any additional users are being denied access. What can Amit do to efficiently automate the process of adding and removing server capacity based on traffic demand? Choose the Correct answer:
A. Enable auto scaling on his application.
B. Automating this process cannot be done
C. Enable elastic load balancing on his application.
D. Write a custom script to automate the process
Answer: A
Explanation: Auto scaling in AWS allows you to configure metric-based rules that (when triggered) will add and/or remove instances (server capacity) to your application. Adding/moving instances is then automated based on the metric rules you configure.
