NEW QUESTION: 2 The Certidea.com network consists of a single Active Directory forest that contains two domains named us.Certidea.com and uk.Certidea.com. The functional level of both us.Certidea.com and uk.Certidea.com is set at Windows 2000 mixed. You are the network administrator of the us.Certidea.com domain. The us.Certidea.com domain contains five domain controllers. Three of these domain controllers run Windows 2000 Server while the other two run Windows Server 2003. Answer: Explanation: Distribution groups can be used only with e-mail applications (such as Exchange) to send e-mail to collections of users. Distribution groups are not security-enabled, which means that they cannot be listed in discretionary access control lists (DACLS) discretionary access control lists (DACLS). The part of an object's security descriptor that grants or denies specific users and groups permission to access the object. Only the owner of an object can change permissions granted or denied in a DACL; thus, access to the object is at the owner's discretion. If you need a group for controlling access to shared resources, create a security group. Security groups are used with care; security groups provide an efficient way to assign access to resources on your network. Using security groups, you can: 1. Assign user rights to security groups in Active Directory. 2. Assign permissions to security groups on resources. A group can be converted from a security group to a distribution group, and vice versa, at anytime, but only if the domain functional level is set to Windows 2000 native or higher. No groups can be converted while the domain functional level is set to Windows 2000 mixed. Domain local groups can contain other domain local groups in the same domain, global groups from any domain, universal groups from any domain, user accounts from any domain, and computer accounts from any domain.

NEW QUESTION: 3 You have a hybrid deployment of Exchange Server 2013 and Microsoft Office 365. The Exchange Server organization has a mailbox size limit of 2 GB. You need to provide engineers with the ability to retain certain email messages indefinitely. The solution must meet the following requirements: * Ensure that the engineers can access the retained email messages by using Outlook Web App. * Ensure that the retained email messages do not apply to the mailbox size limit of the engineers. * Minimize the storage requirements of the on-premises servers. Which two actions should you perform? (Each correct answer presents part of the solution. Choose two.) A. Create a retention policy. B. From the on-premises Exchange Server 2013 organization, create Archive mailboxes. C. From Office 365, create Archive mailboxes. D. Create a data loss prevention (DLP) policy. E. Instruct the engineers to create a personal folder. Answer: A, C Explanation: C:A: In Exchange Server an archive mailbox is a second mailbox provisioned for a user that is separate to their primary user mailbox.
