LIFs can be associated with failover rules that enable you to reroute the network traffic to other available ports in the cluster.LIF failover occurs in the following scenarios:When there is a power failure When automatic revert is enabled on a LIF and that LIF's home port reverts to the administrative up statusThe LIF automatically migrates back to the home port. When the port hosting a LIF is in the administrative down status The LIFs move to another port. When a node reboots or falls out of quorum The LIFs on that node fail over to the ports on other nodes. If a node returns to quorum, theLIFs automatically revert to the ports on the node, provided the ports are the home ports forthe LIF and automatic revert is enabled on the LIF.For more information about quorum, see the Clustered Data ONTAP SystemAdministration Guide for Cluster Administrators. When automatic revert is enabled on a LIF and that LIF's home port reverts to the administrative up status the LIF automatically migrates back to the home port."
