You need to immediately prevent the employee from logging on to the domain. What should you do? A. Disable the employee's Active Directory account. B. Publish a new delta certificate revocation list (CRL). C. Revoke the employee's smart card certificate. D. Reset the password for the employee's Active Directory account. Answer: A Explanation: Only disabling the AD account will prevent logon to the domain. Resetting the password will prevent the user from logging on with the password he had been using, but if he could guess the password he would still be able to logon. Revoking the smart card certificate will not prevent the user from his smart card to login. This is also why publish a new delta CRL will not work.
