NEW QUESTION: 1 Which of the following is the BEST indicator that security awareness training has been effective?
A. A majority of employees have completed training
B. More incidents are being reported
C. Employees sign to acknowledge the security policy
D. No incidents have been reported in three months
Answer: B
Explanation: More incidents being reported could be an indicator that the staff is paying more attention to security. Employee signatures and training completion may or may not have anything to do with awareness levels. The number of individuals trained may not indicate they are more aware. No recent security incidents does not reflect awareness levels, but may prompt further research to confirm.

NEW QUESTION: 3 You work as a Network Administrator for Blue Well Inc. The company has a TCP/IP-based routed network. Two segments have been configured on the network as shown below: One day, the switch in Subnet B fails. What will happen?
A. The whole network will collapse
B. Workstations on Subnet B will become offline
C. Communication between the two subnets will be affected
D. Workstations on Subnet A will become offline
Answer: B, C
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: According to the question, the network is a routed network where two segments have been divided and each segment has a switch. These switches are connected to a common router. All workstations in a segment are connected to their respective subnet's switches. Failure of the switch in Subnet B will make all workstations connected to it offline. Moreover, communication between the two subnets will be affected, as there will be no link to connect to Subnet B.
