A. USER
B. ADD
C. CMD
D. VOLUME
Answer: B
Explanation: When a developer builds an image from a Dockerfile or when she commits it, the developer can set a number of default parameters that take effect when the image starts up as a container. Four of the Dockerfile commands cannot be overridden at runtime: FROM, MAINTAINER, RUN, and ADD. Everything else has a corresponding override in docker run. We'll go through what the developer might have set in each Dockerfile instruction and how the operator can override that setting.
