NEW QUESTION: 1An engineer installs a second Shared PERC Internal card into a VRTX and is performing post installation tasks. The Fault Tolerant Status is NOT Healthy/Normal as expected. What is the cause?
A. One or more nodes are still assigned virtual disks.
B. The VRTX was NOT licensed for two Shared PERC Internal cards.
C. The physical disks were removed from the chassis before initialization finished.
D. The Shared PERC cards are NOT at the same firmware level.
Answer: D

NEW QUESTION: 2You are reviewing SmartView Tracker entries, and see a Connection Rejection on a Check Point QoS rule. What causes the Connection Rejection?
A. The Constant Bit Rate for a Low Latency Class has been exceeded by greater than 10%, and the Maximal Delay is set below requirements.
B. The guarantee of one of the rule's sub-rules exceeds the guarantee in the rule itself.
C. The number of guaranteed connections is exceeded. The rule's action properties are not set to accept additional connections.
D. Burst traffic matching the Default Rule is exhausting the Check Point QoS global packet buffers.
Answer: C

NEW QUESTION: 3An "idle" system is also referred to as what?
A. Bot
B. Zombie
C. PC not connected to the Internet
D. PC not being used
Answer: B
Explanation: In this case "idle" refers to a system that can be used as a go between for an idle scan. One workstation, sends spoofed packets to a target machine, but uses the address of the idle machine as the spoofed source address. Examination of the idle system's behavior is then evaluated. In order for this to work properly, the idle system must be quiet on its network traffic. The "Idle" system is called a zombie. The idle system is not a PC not being used because even a PC that is not in use could be generating network traffic. The issue is not whether a PC is in use, the issue is whether the PC is creating or processing network traffic.
