NEW QUESTION: 1An analyst is investigating an alert within Enterprise EDR. The alert is tied to an unusual process name. When navigating to the binary details page, for the binary used in the alert, the analyst sees the following:
The analyst wants to find any instances of this process executing regardless of the process name used. Which two details from the binary can be used to search for the application regardless of the seen name? (Choose two.)
A. The binary's hash
B. The path
C. The product version
D. The publisher name
E. The original filename
Answer: B,C

NEW QUESTION: 2Which option for the use of the AWS Key Management Service (KMS) supports key management best practices that focus on minimizing the potential scope of data exposed by a possible future key compromise?
A. Change the CMK permissions to ensure that individuals who can provision keys are not the same individuals who can use the keys.
B. Use KMS automatic key rotation to replace the master key, and use this new master key for future encryption operations without re-encrypting previously encrypted data.
C. Change the CMK alias every 90 days, and update key-calling applications with the new key alias.
D. Generate a new Customer Master Key (CMK), re-encrypt all existing data with the new CMK, and use it for all future encryption operations.
Answer: D
Explanation: "automatic key rotation has no effect on the data that the CMK protects. It does not rotate the data keys that the CMK generated or re-encrypt any data protected by the CMK, and it will not mitigate the effect of a compromised data key. You might decide to create a new CMK and use it in place of the original CMK. This has the same effect as rotating the key material in an existing CMK, so it's often thought of as manually rotating the key."
