NEW QUESTION: 1You work as an IT professional in an international company which is named Contoso. Your major job is to translate business goals into technology decisions and plan mid-range to long-term strategies. And you are experienced in network infrastructure, security policy and business continuity. In your company, you are responsible for infrastructure design and global configuration changes. Your company has one head office named H1 and one branch office named B1. A single wide area network(WAN) link connects the offices. One Active Directory domain is contained in the network. Servers that run Windows Server 2008 are contained in this domain. The table below shows the configuration of the relevant servers:

Server name	Installed services	Location
Server1	Active Directory Domain Services (AD DS) File Services	H1
Server2	Distributed File System (DFS) Active Directory Domain Services (AD DS)	B1

An organizational unit (OU) named Main1-computers is created by you. This OU contains all computer accounts in Main1. An OU named Branch1-computers is created by you. This OU contains all computer accounts in B1. A Group Policy object (GPO) named GPO1 is linked to the domain. You plan to use GPO1 to install applications on computers in both offices. The D:Software folder on Server1 is shared as \\Server1Software. The D:Software folder on Server2 is shared as \\Server2Software. DFS Replication is configured to replicate the contents of \\Server1Software to \\Server2Software. Now you receive an order from the company CIO. Since you are the technical support, you are asked to prepare the environment to enable computers in both offices to allow the installation of applications if a WAN link fails. What action should you perform?

A. A DFS Namespace named \\Contoso.comDFSrootSoftware should be created. \\Server1Software and \\Server2Software should be configured as folder targets of the DFS Namespace.
B. A share object should be created in the H1-computers OU that points to \\Server1Software. A Share object should be created in the Branch1-computers OU that points to \\Server2software.
C. The software distribution packages on GPO1 should be configured to use D:Software as the source folder for application installation.
D. A DFS Namespace named \\Server1DFSrootSoftware. \\Server1Software and \\Server2Software should be configured as folder targets of the DFS Namespace.

Answer: A Explanation: \\Contoso.com This is the best answer for a DFS namespace. A namespace is a virtual view of shared folders in an organization. The path to a namespace is similar to a Universal Naming Convention (UNC) path to a shared folder, such as \\Server1\PublicSoftwareTools. In this example, the shared folder Public and its subfolders Software and Tools are all hosted on Server1. If you want to give users a single place to locate data, but you want to host data on different servers for availability and performance purposes, you can deploy a namespace similar to the one shown in the following figure. The elements of this namespace are described following the figure. <http://technet.microsoft.com/en-us/library/cc730736.aspx>
