NEW QUESTION: 2 Which of the following application attacks is used against a corporate directory service where there are unknown servers on the network?
A. LDAP injection
B. Zero day attack
C. Packet sniffing
D. Rogue access point
Answer: A
Explanation: Explanation: A directory service is accessed by using LDAP (Lightweight Directory Access Protocol). LDAP injection is an attack against a directory service. Just as SQL injection attacks take statements that are input by users and exploit weaknesses within, an LDAP injection attack exploits weaknesses in LDAP (Lightweight Directory Access Protocol) implementations. This can occur when the user's input is not properly filtered, and the result can be executed commands, modified content, or results returned to unauthorized queries. The best way to prevent LDAP injection attacks is to filter the user input and to use a validation scheme to make certain that queries do not contain exploits. One of the most common uses of LDAP is associated with user information. Numerous applications exist—such as employee directories—where users find other users by typing in a portion of their name. These queries are looking at the cn value or other fields (those defined for department, home directory, and so on). Someone attempting LDAP injection could feed unexpected values to the query to see what results are returned. All too often, finding employee information equates to finding usernames and values about those users that could be portions of their passwords.

NEW QUESTION: 3 The failure of change management often occurs due to all the following EXCEPT which reason?
A. Inconsistency between managements words and actions
B. Lack of buy-in for the change
C. No system to evaluate the change
D. Unrealistic timelines for the change
Answer: B
Explanation: The failure of change management often occurs due to all the following EXCEPT lack of buy-in for the change. Lack of buy-in is the least likely cause. The remaining answers are all causes of change management failure: Inconsistency between managements words and actions, No system to evaluate the change, Unrealistic timelines for the change

NEW QUESTION: 4 How should a Developer move an IBM Integration Bus installation and its components to another physical location?A. Uninstall and reinstall in the required location.B. Copy and paste the associated files to required location.C. Use the mqsibackupbroker and mqsirestorebroker command.D. Use the mqsimigratecomponents command.Answer: C
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: The mqsirestorebroker command restores the broker configuration from a backup file that you have created by using the mqsibackupbroker command. You can restore a broker only on a computer that has an identical configuration; the operating system must be at the same level, and the broker and queue manager names must be identical. References:
