NEW QUESTION: 1 Refer to Scenario. An enterprise customer would like to better address business continuity at all branch offices. Their corporate data center resides in Chicago, Illinois and they would like all branch office data centers to use Chicago as the destination for replicating backups. Each branch office has a mixture of databases, e-mail, and other data that need full backups on Friday evenings and daily incremental backups. Based on their new Chief Technology Officer's experience with deduplication, they are installing EMC Data Domain devices at all sites to take advantage of the lower bandwidth requirements for backup replications. The backup requirements for the branch offices are: New York, Denver, and Houston = 100 GB full, 20% daily incremental; SCO, Seattle, and Kansas City = 20 GB full, 20% daily incremental. The San Francisco branch office has an existing VTL infrastructure. Which type of replication is recommended for their backups? A. Pool B. Collection C. Directory D. MTree
