NEW QUESTION: 2 You have a server that serves `www`, `ftp`, and `mail`. You need to access this server using `www.yourname.com`, `ftp.yourname.com`, and `mail.yourname.com`. You want to ensure an IP change results in the least number of other changes. What is the best solution? Choose the correct answer:
A. Create an A record for `www`, `ftp` and `mail`, and point it to the ALIAS of the server.
B. Create an A record pointing to the server's IP address and create CNAME records for `www`, `ftp`, and `mail` and point those to the A record.
C. Create PTR records and point the IP address of the server back to `www`, `ftp`, and `mail`.
D. Create CNAME records for `www`, `ftp`, and `mail` and point those to the A record already provided to the instance by AWS.
Answer: B
Explanation: There is no ALIAS record for an EC2 instance, CNAME records pointed to the A record provided by AWS won't work because if the IP changes, the A record will change also. A PTR record is not appropriate here and cannot point to more than one record. Having three CNAME records and one A record will result in only having to change the A record if the IP changes.
