NEW QUESTION: 1Your office uses Windows Vista. This morning, a patch was applied automatically. Suddenly, the users who have scanners attached to their computers complain that they cannot access the scanners. When you check their Device Manager, you notice there is no exclamation point next to the scanner. What should you do now?A. Find a Vista compatible scanner.B. Manually uninstall and reinstall the device driver.C. Roll back the patch.D. Reinstall Vista.Answer: B*Explanation:Sometimes a patch may cause problems for an existing device driver. Usually, you simply uninstall and then reinstall the driver. This way the driver is installed after the patch. Answer option D is incorrect. Patches often have key security updates. Simply leaving the machine unpatched is never a good idea. Answer option A is incorrect. This drastic step will return you to the pre-patch state, but then you will still need to apply that patch, and still have to deal with this problem. Answer option B is incorrect. The scanner worked with Vista before the patch. This indicates that it is Vista compatible. Reference. <http://support.microsoft.com/kb/948187/en-us>

NEW QUESTION: 4Which Oracle cloud infrastructure capability can be used to protect against power failures within an availability Domain?A. Top of Rack SwitchB. Data PlaneC. Fault DomainsD. Services CellsAnswer: C

Explanation:ExplanationA fault domain is a grouping of hardware and infrastructure within an availability domain. Each availability domain contains three fault domains. Fault domains provide anti-affinity: they let you distribute your instances so that the instances are not on the same physical hardware within a single availability domain. A hardware failure or Compute hardware maintenance event that affects one fault domain does not affect instances in other fault domains. In addition, the physical hardware in a fault domain has independent and redundant power supplies, which prevents a failure in the power supply hardware within one fault domain from affecting other fault domains.To control the placement of your compute instances, bare metal DB system instances, or virtual machine DB system instances, you can optionally specify the fault domain for a new instance or instance pool at launch time. If you don't specify the fault domain, the system selects one for you. Oracle Cloud Infrastructure makes a best-effort anti-affinity placement across different fault domains, while optimizing for available capacity in the availability domain. To change the fault domain for an instance, terminate it and launch a new instance in the preferred fault domain.Use fault domains to do the following things:Protect against unexpected hardware failures or power supply failures.Protect against planned outages because of Compute hardware maintenance.
