A. Once
B. Twice
C. Infinite
D. Zero
Answer: A

NEW QUESTION: 3 Note: This question is part of a series of questions that use the same scenario. For your convenience, the scenario is repeated in each question. Each question presents a different goal and answer choices, but the text of the scenario is exactly the same in each question in this series. You have a database named Sales that contains the following database tables: Customer, Order, and Products. The Products table and the Order table are shown in the following diagram. The customer table includes a column that stores the data for the last order that the customer placed. You plan to create a table named Leads. The Leads table is expected to contain approximately 20,000 records. Storage requirements for the Leads table must be minimized. You need to implement a stored procedure that deletes a discontinued product from the Products table. You identify the following requirements: * If an open order includes a discontinued product, the records for the product must not be deleted. * The stored procedure must return a custom error message if a product record cannot be deleted. The message must identify the OrderID for the open order. What should you do? To answer, select the appropriate Transact-SQL segments in the answer area.
Answer:
Explanation: Explanation Using TRY...CATCH in Transact-SQL Errors in Transact-SQL code can be processed by using a TRY...CATCH construct. TRY...CATCH can use the following error function to capture error information: ERROR_MESSAGE() returns the complete text of the error message. The text includes the values supplied for any substitutable parameters such as lengths, object names, or times. References:
