NEW QUESTION: 1An administrator sees that a runtime audit has been generated for a host. The audit message is:"Service postfix attempted to obtain capability SHELL by executing /bin/sh /usr/libexec/postfix/postfix- script.stop. Low severity audit, event is automatically added to the runtime model" Which runtime host policy rule is the root cause for this runtime audit?A. Custom rule with specific configuration for networkingB. Default rule that alerts on suspicious runtime behaviorC. Default rule that alerts on capabilitiesD. Custom rule with specific configuration for file integrityAnswer: B

NEW QUESTION: 2質問をドラッグアンドドロップAnswer: Explanation:

NEW QUESTION: 3Ann is the data owner of financial records for a company. She has requested that she have the ability to assign read and write privileges to her folders. The network administrator is tasked with setting up the initial access control system and handing Ann's administrative capabilities. Which of the following systems should be deployed?A. Role-based B. Rule-basedC. MandatoryD. DiscretionaryAnswer: D*Explanation:In a Discretionary Access Control (DAC) model, network users have some flexibility regarding how information is accessed. This model allows users to share information dynamically with other users. Discretionary access control (DAC) allows access to be granted or restricted by an object's owner based on user identity and on the discretion of the object owner.In this question, Ann has requested that she have the ability to assign read and write privileges to her folders. Read and write access to Ann's files will be granted by Ann at her discretion. Therefore, this is an example of Discretionary Access Control.Incorrect Answers:A. Role-Based Access Control (RBAC) models approach the problem of access control based on established roles in an organization. This does not enable Ann to provide access to her files regardless of user role. Therefore, this answer is incorrect.B. Mandatory Access Control allows access to be granted or restricted based on the rules of classification. It does not enable Ann to provide access to her files regardless of user role. Therefore, this answer is incorrect.D. Rule-Based Access Control (RBAC) uses the settings in preconfigured security policies to make all decisions. Ann needs to provide access to her files based on her discretion, not based on preconfigured security policies. Therefore, this answer is incorrect.References:Stewart, James Michael, CompTIA Security+ Review Guide, Sybex, Indianapolis, 2014, p. 151-152
