NEW QUESTION: 1Which statements are true about EIGRP successor routes? (Choose two.)A. A successor route may be backed up by a feasible successor route.B. A successor route is used by EIGRP to forward traffic to a destination.C. Successor routes are flagged as 'active' in the routing table.D. Successor routes are saved in the topology table to be used if the primary route fails.E. Successor routes are stored in the neighbor table following the discovery process.

Answer: A,BExplanation:Explanation/Reference:Explanation:Introduction to EIGRP

Feasible Successors A destination entry is moved from the topology table to the routing table when there is a feasible successor. All minimum cost paths to the destination form a set. From this set, the neighbors that have an advertised metric less than the current routing table metric are considered feasible successors.Feasible successors are viewed by a router as neighbors that are downstream with respect to the destination.These neighbors and the associated metrics are placed in the forwarding table. When a neighbor changes the metric it has been advertising or a topology change occurs in the network, the set of feasible successors may have to be re-evaluated. However, this is not categorized as a route recomputation.
