Answer: A,E

NEW QUESTION: 3Your network contains an Active Directory domain named contoso.com. The domain contains a read-only domain controller (RODC) named RODC1.You create a global group named RODC_Admins.You need to provide the members of RODC_Admins with the ability to manage the hardware and the software on RODC1. The solution must not provide RODC_Admins with the ability to manage Active Directory objects.What should you do?A. From Active Directory Users and Computers, configure the Member Of settings of the RODC1 account.B. From Active Directory Users and Computers, run the Delegation of Control Wizard.C. From a command prompt, run the dsadd computer command.D. From Active Directory Users and Computers, configure the Managed By settings of the RODC1 account.Answer: C*Explanation: Dsadd is a command-line tool that is built into Windows Server 2008. It is available if you have the Active Directory Domain Services (AD DS) or Active Directory Lightweight Directory Services (AD LDS) server role installed. To use dsadd, you must run the dsadd command from an elevated command prompt. To open an elevated command prompt, click Start, right-click Command Prompt, and then click Run as administrator.* You can delegate local administrative permissions for an RODC to any domain user without granting that user any user rights for the domain or other domain controllers. This permits a local branch user to log on to an RODC and perform maintenance work on the server, such as upgrading a driver. However, the branch user cannot log on to any other domain controller or perform any other administrative task in the domain. In this way, the branch user can be delegated the ability to effectively manage the RODC in the branch office without compromising the security of the rest of the domain.
