You need to deploy a new Microsoft SQL Server environment that meets the following requirements:
* The SQL Server instance must be highly available.
* There must be minimal downtime incurred during hardware failure or operating system maintenance.
* All instance-level security settings and SQL Server Agent jobs must be available without additional synchronization tasks.
What should you implement?
A. log shipping
B. a file share witness
C. an Always On Availability Group with all replicas in synchronous-commit mode
D. a Windows cluster with a shared-nothing architecture
E. a Microsoft SQL Server failover cluster instance (FCI)
F. a Microsoft Azure Stretch Database
G. an Always On Availability Group with secondary replicas in asynchronous-commit mode
Answer: E
Explanation: As part of the SQL Server Always On offering, Always On Failover Cluster Instances leverages Windows Server Failover Clustering (WSFC) functionality to provide local high availability through redundancy at the server-instance level—a failover cluster instance (FCI). An FCI is a single instance of SQL Server that is installed across Windows Server Failover Clustering (WSFC) nodes and, possibly, across multiple subnets. When there is hardware or software failure of a server, the applications or clients connecting to the server will experience downtime. When a SQL Server instance is configured to be an FCI (instead of a standalone instance), the high availability of that SQL Server instance is protected by the presence of redundant nodes in the FCI.
