NEW QUESTION: 1What are two benefits of private IPv4 IP addresses? (Choose two.)A. They eliminate duplicate IP conflicts.B. They are routed the same as public IP addresses.C. They are less costly than public IP addresses.D. They can be assigned to devices without Internet connections.E. They eliminate the necessity for NAT policies.Answer: B,D*Explanation:What is private IP address?A private IP address is the address space allocated by InterNIC to allow organizations to create their own private network. There are three IP blocks (1 class A, 1 class B and 1 class C) reserved for a private use. The computers, tablets and smartphones sitting behind your home, and the personal computers within an organizations are usually assigned private IP addresses. A network printer residing in your home is assigned a private address so that only your family can print to your local printer. When a computer is assigned a private IP address, the local devices sees this computer via it's private IP address. However, the devices residing outside of your local network cannot directly communicate via the private IP address, but uses your router's public IP address to communicate. To allow direct access to a local device which is assigned a private IP address, a Network Address Translator (NAT) should be used.
