NEW QUESTION: 4 What does the flume sink do in a flume configuration? A. forwards events to the source B. sinks the log file that is transmitted into Hadoop C. hosts the components through which events flow from an external source to the next destination D. removes events from the channel and puts them into an external repository E. consumes events delivered to it by an external source such as a web server Answer: E
Explanation: A Flume source consumes events delivered to it by an external source like a web server. The external source sends events to Flume in a format that is recognized by the target Flume source. When a Flume source receives an event, it stores it into one or more channels. The channel is a passive store that keeps the event until it's consumed by a Flume sink. References:
