NEW QUESTION: 1 DRAG DROP You have a Microsoft 365 subscription. In the Exchange admin center, you have a data loss prevention (DLP) policy named Policy1 that has the following configurations: * Block emails that contain financial data. * Display the following policy tip text: Message blocked. From the Security & Compliance admin center, you create a DLP policy named Policy2 that has the following configurations: * Use the following location: Exchange email. * Display the following policy tip text: Message contains sensitive data. * When a user sends an email, notify the user if the email contains health records. What is the result of the DLP policies when the user sends an email? To answer, drag the appropriate results to the correct scenarios. Each result may be used once, more than once, or not at all. You may need to drag the split bar between panes or scroll to view content. NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point. Answer: Explanation: Explanation Box 1: The email will be blocked, and the user will receive the policy tip: Message blocked. If you've created DLP policies in the Exchange admin center, those policies will continue to work side by side with any policies for email that you create in the Security & Compliance Center. But note that rules created in the Exchange admin center take precedence. All Exchange mail flow rules are processed first, and then the DLP rules from the Security & Compliance Center are processed. Box 2: The email will be allowed, and the user will receive the policy tip: Message contains sensitive data. NEW QUESTION: 2 A person buys a product at a store located in the European Economic Area (EEA). At the time of purchase, you are asked to fill out a registration form and he informs his personal email. As is usual in many stores, in the next few days this person will start receiving several marketing emails. He considers the frequency of these emails to be very high. Demanding his rights, he asks the store to delete all his personal data. What the store must do according to the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR)? A. The store must delete customer data from its advertising list. Purchase data cannot be deleted, as financial data has to be kept longer. B. The store has 30 days from the date of receipt of the customer's request to delete all data at no cost to the customer. C. The owner does not have this right, since he bought a product in the store, he has the right to send emails with new promotions. Answer: A Explanation: Companies have tax obligations to be fulfilled, so financial data cannot be deleted. The data subject has several rights under the GDPR, however there are limitations. These rights cannot run counter to other specific legislation. In this case, the holder can exercise the right of Opposition instead of Exclusion. In the Right of Opposition, he requests the Controller to cease the processing of his data for non-consented purposes. An example of Opposition: in Brazil there was the website naomeperturbe.com.br, where millions of Brazilians could oppose the inconvenient calls made by the telecommunication service providers.
