NEW QUESTION: 1You are concerned with messages being received systematically. You designed Message-Driven beans (MDB) to guarantee the most reliable way to consume messages. In which three scenarios would JMS always redeliver a message? (Choose three.)A. when the onMessage() method fails to acknowledge the reception of the messageB. when messages are non-persistentC. when messages are not being sent as part of a transactionD. when the transaction the MDB participates in eventually fails and rolls backE. when the onMessage() method of the MDB throws a Java errorAnswer: A,C,D*Explanation: Explanation/Reference: An MDB pool processes each message at least once. Potentially, a message can be process more than once: * If an application fails, a transaction rolls back, or the hosting server instance fail during or after the onMessage() method completes but before the message is acknowledged or committed, the message will be redelivered and processed again. * Non-persistent messages are also redelivered in the case of failure, except for the case where the message's host JMS server shuts down or crashes, in which case the messages are destroyed. To ensure that a message is processed exactly once, use container-managed transactions so that failures cause transactional MDB work to rollback and force the message to be redelivered. NEW QUESTION: 2You need to assign permissions for the Virtual Machine (VM) workloads that you migrate to Azure. The solution must use the principal of least privileges. What should you do?A. Create all VMs in the cloud service named Group1 and then connect to the Azure subscription. Run the following Windows PowerShell command: New-AzureRoleAssignment -Mail [email#160;protected] -RoleDefinitionName Contributor -ResourceGroupName group1B. In the Azure portal, assign read permission to the user at the subscription level.C. In the Azure portal, select an individual virtual machine and add an owner.D. Create each VM in a separate cloud service and then connect to the Azure subscription. Run the following Windows PowerShell command: Get-AzureVM | New-AzureRoleAssignment -Mail [email#160;protected] -RoleDefinitionName ContributorAnswer: A*Explanation: * Scenario: Permissions must be assigned by using Role Based Access Control (RBAC). * Role-Based access control (RBAC) in the Azure Portal and Azure Resource Management API allows you to manage access to your subscription at a fine-grained level. With this feature, you can grant access for Active Directory users, groups, or service principals by assigning some roles to them at a particular scope. Create a role assignment Use New-AzureRoleAssignment to create a role assignment. Example: This will create a role assignment for a group at a resource group level.PS C:>

New-AzureRoleAssignment -ObjectID <group object ID> -RoleDefinitionNameReader
-ResourceGroupName group1References:
