Explanation: Recommended network switches for HP StoreVirtual 4000 Storage HP Networking has an extensive portfolio of Ethernet switches that are ideally suited for iSCSI deployments. These switches are designed to deliver high-performance, low-latency, and wire-speed Layer 2 to 4 network services. HP Networking top of rack series of switches offer unmatched combination of 1GbE and 10GbE ports density, high availability architecture, Intelligent Resilient Framework (IRF) technology as well as a full range of Layer 2 and or Layer 3 features depending on switch selection. These switches are built to support open and industry-standards networking protocol. These switches can be deployed within the network core or as a highperformance switch in the convergence layer or network edge of SMB and enterprise networks. Listed below is a selection of recommended top of rack models. These are the 3800, 5830, 5920, and 6600 series.
