NEW QUESTION: 1A user has configured two security groups which allow traffic as given below:If both the security groups are associated with the same instance, which of the below mentioned statements is true?A. It is not possible to create the security group with conflicting rules. AWS will reject the requestB. It allows inbound traffic on port 22 for IP 10.10.10.1 and for everyone else on port 80C. It is not possible to have more than one security group assigned to a single instanceD. It allows inbound traffic for everyone on both ports 22 and 80Answer: D
Explanation:Explanation/Reference:Explanation:A user can attach more than one security group to a single EC2 instance. In this case, the rules from each security group are effectively aggregated to create one set of rules. AWS uses this set of rules to determine whether to allow access or not. Thus, here the rule for port 22 with IP 10.10.10.1/32 will merge with IP 0.0.0.0/0 and open ports 22 and 80 for all.
