NEW QUESTION: 3Product status is a data element you need to include in your Planning application. Each product will have a product status that can vary over time. You will use product status in calculations and will need to report sales by product status and across products in a cross tab format.What is the best way to meet all of these requirements?A. Define Product Status as a Varying Attribute.B. Define Product Status as a Smart List.C. Define Product Status as an alternate hierarchy in the Product dimension.D. Define Product Status as an Attribute.E. Define Product Status as a Separate Dimension.Answer: A
Explanation/Reference:Explanation:Varying AttributesAbout Varying AttributesA product typically has attributes that describe or define the product. For example, a product could have an attribute describing the size of the product in ounces and an attribute describing the flavor of the product.In such a scenario, Product would be a base dimension while Ounces and Flavor would be attribute dimensions.A varying attribute enables you to track two values in relation to a third dimension called an independent dimension. You could, for example, track your product in eight ounces over a year.In this scenario, Time is the independent dimension. The value of this third factor can vary (hence the name). For example, you could track your product over a year, a quarter, or a month.References:
