NEW QUESTION: 2Looking at the SYN packets in the Wireshark output, select the statement that is true about NAT.A. This is an example of Static NAT and Translate destination on client side checked in Global Properties.B. This is an example of Hide NAT.C. There is not enough information provided in the Wireshark capture to determine the NAT settings.D. This is an example of Static NAT and Translate destination on client side unchecked in Global Properties.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION: 3A network administrator cannot connect to a remote router by using SSH. Part of the show interfaces command is shown.
router#show interfaces
Serial0/1/0 is up, line protocol is down
At which OSI layer should the administrator begin troubleshooting?A. physical B. network C. data link D. transport Answer: CExplanation:Explanation/Reference:Explanation: The indication here is "Serial 0 is up, line protocol is down". What causes this indication? Correct me if I am wrong. When you have this indication, a cable unplugged is not a correct answer. If you check the output of your "show interface serial 0" command again, you should notice it as "Serial 0 is down, line protocol is down. Under the "show ip int brief" you should see status = down and protocol = down as opposed to up, down. Because you disconnected the cable, layer 1 will go down, which is indicated by the serial 0 down status. The line protocol status is for layer 2. So, a cable unplugged is not a correct answer to "Serial 0 is up, line protocol is down".
