NEW QUESTION: 2 You are implementing a URL whitelisting system for a company that wants to restrict outbound HTTP'S connections to specific domains from their EC2-hosted applications you deploy a single EC2 instance running proxy software and configure It to accept traffic from all subnets and EC2 instances in the VPC. You configure the proxy to only pass through traffic to domains that you define in its whitelist configuration You have a nightly maintenance window or 10 minutes where all instances fetch new software updates. Each update is about 200MB in size and there are 500 instances in the VPC that routinely fetch updates After a few days you notice that some machines are failing to successfully download some, but not all of their updates within the maintenance window. The download URLs used for these updates are correctly listed in the proxy's whitelist configuration and you are able to access them manually using a web browser on the instances. What might be happening? (Choose 2) A. You are running the proxy in a public subnet but have not allocated enough EIPs to support the needed network throughput through the Internet Gateway (IGW). B. You have not allocated enough storage to the EC2 instance running the proxy so the network buffer is filling up, causing some requests to fail. C. The route table for the subnets containing the affected EC2 instances is not configured to direct network traffic for the software update locations to the proxy. D. You are running the proxy on an undersized EC2 instance type so network throughput is not sufficient for all instances to download their updates in time. E. You are running the proxy on a sufficiently-sized EC2 instance in a private subnet and its network throughput is being throttled by a NAT running on an undersized EC2 instance. Answer: D,E

A. AWS Web Application Firewall (AWS WAF)
B. Amazon Virtual Private Cloud (Amazon VPC) NAT Gateway
C. Amazon Simple Storage Service (Amazon S3) Transfer Acceleration
D. AWS Direct Connect
Answer: D

These connectivity options include leveraging either the internet or an AWS Direct Connect connection as the network backbone and terminating the connection into either AWS or user-managed network endpoints. Additionally, with AWS, you can choose how network routing is delivered between Amazon VPC and your networks, leveraging either AWS or user-managed network equipment and routes.
