NEW QUESTION: 3Your cluster Mapreduce V1 (MVR1). What determines where blocks are return into HDFS client application?A. The clients sends the data to the name node, which then writes those blocks to the data nodesB. The client immediately to data nodes based on the clusters rack locality settingsC. the client writes immediately to data nodes at randomD. The client queries the name node, which returns information on which data nodes to use. Then client writes to those data nodes.Answer: DExplanation:For each block, the Client consults the Name Node.HDFS is the primary distributed storage used by Hadoop applications. A HDFS cluster primarilyconsists of a NameNode that manages the file system metadata and DataNodes that store theactual data.Clients contact NameNode for file metadata or file modifications and perform actual file I/O directlywith the DataNodes.Note:The NameNode is the centerpiece of an HDFS file system. It keeps the directory tree of all files inthe file system, and tracks where across the cluster the file data is kept. It does not store the dataof these files itself.Client applications talk to the NameNode whenever they wish to locate a file, or when they want toadd/copy/move/delete a file. The NameNode responds the successful requests by returning a list of relevant DataNode servers where the data lives.
