NEW QUESTION: 2Is the following statement true or false?When a printer is installed on a network, default printer permissions are assigned that allow all users to print and change the status of documents sent to itA. TrueB. FalseAnswer: B*Explanation:Initial answer = true => false the key is all users and change the status of documents. Change the status document refers to the "Manage Document" permission and it's not a default permission for "all users". by default, so far, a user can only modify status of the jobs that he initiated himself. but i tested to make sure. i installed 2 fake printers (one by the network, and one using LPT1) and here's the default permissions i have got:If we consider that Everyone can be used to designate "all users", the above screenshot is enough. but just to be sure, i'll add the "Domain Users" and "Authenticated Users" groupsto the permissions to check which permission are assigned by default:exactly the same: only the permission to print documents:Now we can be sure the answer is "FALSE".NB: by default, only Administrators (and administrator) and "All Application Packages" haveboth permissions (print & manage documents)
<http://technet.microsoft.com/en-us/library/cc773372%28v=ws.10%29.aspx>Assigning printer permissionsWhen a printer is installed on a network, default printer permissions are assigned that allow all users to print, and allow select groups to manage the printer, the documents sent to it, or both. Because the printer is available to all users on the network, you might want to limit access for some users by assigning specific printer permissions. For example, you could give all nonadministrative users in a department the Print permission and give all managers the Print and Manage Documents permissions. In this way, all users and managers can print documents, but managers can also change the print status of any document sent to the printer.
