NEW QUESTION: 1A. Option AB. Option DC. Option BD. Option CAnswer: DExplanation: ExplanationRouting Traffic to an ELB Load BalancerIf you host a website on multiple Amazon EC2 instances, you can distribute traffic to your website across the instances by using an Elastic Load Balancing (ELB) load balancer. The ELB service automatically scales the load balancer as traffic to your website changes over time. The load balancer also can monitor the health of its registered instances and route domain traffic only to healthy instances.To route domain traffic to an ELB load balancer, use Amazon Route 53 to create an alias record that points to your load balancer. An alias record is a Route 53 extension to DNS. It's similar to a CNAME record, but you can create an alias record both for the root domain, such as example.com, and for subdomains, such as www.example.com. (You can create CNAME records only for subdomains.) Note Route 53 doesn't charge for alias queries to ELB load balancers or other AWS resources.Prerequisites Before you get started, you need the following:* An ELB load balancer. You can use an ELB Classic, Application, or Network Load Balancer. For information about creating a load balancer, see Getting Started with Elastic Load Balancing in the Elastic Load Balancing User Guide Give the load balancer a name that will help you remember what it's for later. The name that you specify when you create a load balancer is the name that you'll choose when you create an alias record in the Route 53 console.* A registered domain name. You can use Route 53 as your domain registrar, or you can use a different registrar.* Route 53 as the DNS service for the domain. If you register your domain name by using Route 53, we automatically configure Route 53 as the DNS service for the domain.For information about using Route 53 as the DNS service provider for your domain, see Making Amazon Route 53 the DNS Service for an Existing Domain.
